

We have a very successful "No-call" law in Indiana. I feel that the federal law should not interfere with. I would like to say:

--That the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

- Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has improved our time at home by not being interrupted by telemarketing calls.

--Our name being on Indiana's list has cut our unwanted calls by about 95 per cent.

--Please do not supercede our state law by enacting something that would lessen our "No call list" in Indiana.

Sincerely,

Marj Morgan
